Important Instructions

- Never force a person to give an interview.
- Show the interviewee your identification letter. Explain to him/her that you are a student of Delhi University and you are collecting data as part of your course work.
- Also tell them that at any point if they feel uncomfortable with any of the questions, they don't have to answer those and they can stop any time they want.
- If they still refuse, thank them for their time and leave.
- Never pretend that you are from a government agency and carrying out an official survey.
- Always remember that households are not obliged to provide you their personal information. It is voluntary and coercion in any form is unacceptable.
